About the Seminar :

Language is a powerful instrument of social change and often initiates upward movement in the social structure. Languages spoken in India belong to many language families such as Indo European family. Words and Ideas are interrelated. They can change the world in accordance with the rapid growth of scientific technology. Words and thoughts are inseparably connected. New words are required to express new ideas. In order to fulfil this requirement, words are borrowed from other languages or create new words in almost all languages in the world.

Word creation is a process by which new words are created. It increases the importance of language when it creates new words. It helps to maintain its own vitality and it helps another language which borrows words from the initiatory language.

Through this seminar we would like to explore the possibility of new words creation in Indian Languages by using developed scientific Technology

Key Objectives (point-wise in bullets):

- Expansion of vocabulary in Indian languages
- To give awareness about CSTT
- To empower learners with the skill of creation of scientific and Technical words in Sanskrit.
